■ Urgent Questions (if any)■ Ministerial Statements (if any)*BUSINESS OF THE DAY*1. BANK OF ENGLAND AND FINANCIAL SERVICES BILL [LORDS]: SECOND READING

Until 10.00pm (Standing Order No. 9(3))

Jeremy Corbyn

John McDonnell

Ms Angela Eagle

Rob Marris

Richard Burgon

Dame Rosie Winterton

That this House, whilst noting improvements made to the Bill in the House of Lords, declines to give the Bank of England and Financial Services Bill [Lords] a Second Reading because the Bill fails to increase oversight and accountability of the work of the Bank of England, because the Bill reduces regulation of financial services and because the Bill removes the reverse burden of proof with regard to personal responsibility in the Senior Managers and Certification Regime which was introduced following the cross-party Parliamentary Commission on Banking Standards and enacted in the Financial Services (Banking Reform) Act 2013; and considers that there is no evidence base to justify the removal of the reverse burden of proof which has not yet been implemented.

Angus Robertson

George Kerevan

Stewart Hosie

Dr Eilidh Whiteford

Roger Mullin

That this House declines to give a Second Reading to the Bank of England and Financial Services Bill [Lords] because it rejects a central recommendation of the Parliamentary Commission on Banking Standards, which was originally agreed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in his response to the Commission's findings, namely that senior bank officials are held accountable for breaches of conduct within their areas of responsibility, by reversing the burden of proof on them, and because, while proposing to implement other recommendations from the Commission for a more effective regulatory regime covering the financial sector, the Bill fails to provide sufficient safeguards to guarantee the independence of new or reformed regulatory bodies from direct political interference or undue external influence.

Relevant Documents:

Oral evidence taken before the Treasury Committee on 9 September and 20 and 22 October 2015, on the Bank of England Bill, HC 445
